

Patrick McGrath

Chief Corporate Affairs Officer
Kismet Healthcare

Patrick McGrath is a former political staffer to both state and federal politicians.

He has spent the last decade working in the Australian start-up sector with a particular focus on healthtech and the future of work.

Patrick is a keen observer of the current state of Australian politics and brings a unique political analysis to the conference.

Patrick will recap the Albanese Government's resounding re-election as well as the continued splintering of the major party vote - and what this means for Australian politics.
